

Mrs. M. McLeod Committed for Trial

BAIL SET AT $2,500 AFTER PRELIMINARY

Magistrate McLeod Refuses to Grant Defence Counsel Dismissal

Mrs. Marie McLeod was committed to stand trial at the next session of the court on charges of obtaining a preliminary hearing on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses, but was granted bail of $2,500 by Justice James Gardner, in court Thursday afternoon. Bail will be paid in cash.

The afternoon hearing was a continuation of the prosecution of evidence which had been begun the previous morning when the court was told how the accused allegedly obtained the $2,500 from the Royal Canadian Bank.

Mr. McLeod had told how he had given up his furniture that she had not been in possession of. The other person he knew, Mrs. K. H. King, had told him that he had given up her furniture that she had not even paid for.

The first witness for the crown at the afternoon session related how Mr. McLeod had given up his furniture with the balance to be paid in cash and then did not make a settle- ment with the bank. He had arranged for the purchase by the accused of $95 worth of goods, but had not paid the bill and never had possession of the goods.

CLUDED IN MORTGAGE

On the basis of this evidence that the radio and silverware in question were included in the mortgage that was taken out, Justice Gardner had been given by accused in exchange for $2,500.

Mrs. McLeod also claimed that the radio and silverware in question were included in the mortgage that was taken out, Justice Gardner had been given by accused in exchange for $2,500.

Mrs. McLeod drew up the mortgage, took the stand and stated that the furniture included in the mortgage was never taken by her.

In the house that she purchased from the Royal Canadian Bank, Mrs. McLeod said, there was not enough furniture to cover it, so she had to give up the radio and silverware.

She also claimed that the furniture that was taken was the furniture that Mrs. McLeod stated was coming from the Royal Canadian Bank.

In answer to a question by the magistrate she stated that she owned the "furniture" that she gave the mortgage.

The crown then stopped to clarify its stand. Mrs. McLeod in con- sideration of the facts, however, had agreed to give up the furniture.

Mr. Gardner had given her a mortgage on goods, which she had never paid off, and she had given up the radio and other household chattels.

The defense tried to show that Mrs. McLeod had given up the goods which she gave the mortgage.

IN PARTNERSHIP

This was denied by Mrs. McLeod who took the stand. She told the court that she had given up the radio and the silverware in consideration of the fact that she had given up the furniture.

Further evidence was given by her to the effect that she had never received any payment from the accused. Mrs. McLeod had given her duties as housekeeper to her husband.

Mrs. Carpenter, the second housekeeper in the other flat, however, stated that she had given up the radio and the silverware.

During the morning session Justice Gardner had told him that he had given him this cheque as double indemnity.

Det. Inspector Knippel continued: "She also told me that she had purchased the radio and silverware in question earlier in the case. Like in his evidence, stated emphatically that she was not guilty."

ASKS DISMISSAL

That concluded the case for the prosecution.

P. G. Thompson, R.C.M.P., asked for a dismissal of the accused, contending:

"The evidence does not reflect that Mrs. McLeod had been guilty of obtaining money by false pretenses."

"The whole thing was open, nothing was concealed—the complainant did not know what he was doing."

"He wished, however, did not agree."

"He is not going to drag a case. There is a case here and Mrs. McLeod has something to answer for."

Asked if he had anything to say to the accused, he said: "Nothing. Defence reserved."

Americans Rush For Soviet Jobs

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—American Trading Corporation, the commercial association of 1,000 American companies which have 6,000 persons here have applied for 8,000 jobs open in Russia.

John W. Dill, president of the Amberg International Bureau, said that of the 8,000 United States citizens to seek work in Russia, 6,000 had applied.

Asked if he had anything to say to the accused, he said: "Nothing. Defence reserved."

THE ROAD TO POVERTY

The Bank of France in recent months has increased its gold holdings 50 per cent, and its stock has gone down 50 per cent. The United States has gathered in about half the world's gold supply. It is to be seen how it is to help 100 million ads people and put life again into its foreign trade, and faces a national deficit that may run to one and one half billions of dollars.

Long ago it was written: "There is that scatterer and yet increase; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty." If France and the United States could "scatter" their gold among the nations with whom they have been trading, it would help their own trade and industry and the welfare of their people. At present they are, very literally, "tending to poverty."

ONE SET OF REGULATIONS

The Privy Council has decided that the Dominion must have the power to regulate the operation of airships and aeroplanes. Why any provincial government should ever have challenged that right is a mystery, aside from a hope that some provincial revenue might be obtained in that way by imposing taxes on the air carriers. Until the provinces were only governed by an altruistic desire to know what the law is, with no practical purpose in view.

Certainly the proposal that the provinces should have the regulatory authority, or that authority be divided between the federal and provincial governments, held little promise that aviation could develop in Canada to the extent that it did. The opportunity for the employment of the new means of transport, and without artificial handicaps resulting from a system of controls.

With nine or ten parliaments framing laws to govern airship and aeroplane regulations, and nine or ten governments making regulations to suit their varying interests or peculiar whims, the airmen would face a situation replete with problems, but devoid of a prospect of profits.

DEMONSTRATION CARGOES

On October 17th, the shipwright Canadian Pacific liner arrived in Montreal on a quite unusual mission. Its cargo consists of a comprehensive assortment of Australian products. These are not intended for sale, but for promotional purposes.

In the course, that Canadian buyers may be induced to place orders for these kinds of products in Australia instead of in countries outside the Empire.

In a few days the same vessel is due to sail for Australia. After a short stay, carrying a return cargo of Canadian products, to be used there in the same manner and for the like purpose. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has been a considerate friend, securing as wide a variety of the products of Canada as possible for inclusion in this demonstration cargo, and western producers and manufacturers were invited to communicate with the officers of the association in regard thereto.

This exchange of business courtesies has been arranged with the approval and assistance of the Department of Trade and Commerce, and is peculiarly timely in view of the recent conclusion of a new trade treaty between Canada and the southern Dominion. The practical value of the treaty will necessarily depend upon the assertions made by the representatives of the two countries to establish trade relationships in the markets thus opened to them.

It is to be hoped that under the treaty Australia will be able to find sale in Canada for large amounts of products which we have hitherto been importing from foreign countries. Upon that will depend to a considerable extent the amount of Canadian products which will be shipped to Australia. This practical means of "showing" either country what the other has to offer it should help materially to the end of establishing exchanges on a mutually profitable basis.

WHERE ARE THE ALBERTA MEMBERS?

The passing of time has not improved the prospect that the Dominion Government will turn a hand to help open the road to Jasper, and through Jasper to the coast, for the people of central and northern Alberta. On the contrary, news concerning Victoria that has just reached the British Columbia Government to cut down its relief work program, and that similar requests are being made to the other provincial governments.

This may be taken to mean the individual provinces are not anxious to receive financial help in completing Jasper with the British Columbia highway from Kamloops, the gap between Valemount and the Park boundary not having been included in the program, which ought to be extended. It may also take to indicate less willingness—if there has been any willingness hitherto—on the part of Ottawa to give assistance to the completion of the Jasper highway, or the Edmonton highway.

Thus while the construction of the Banff-Jasper highway is being pushed ahead, nothing is being done, and apparently nothing is in mind, so far as the Dominion Government is concerned to complete the highway, or the highway route from central Alberta to Jasper and through the mountains.

This still less favorable turn to the situation increases the responsibility that the provinces have in maintaining the rights of the people in parliament, and the legislature. Quite evidently it is useless to go on making polite requests that Ottawa do justice in the matter. Something more drastic is called for if the plain facts of the case are to be known. In these sections of the province are to get the attention they require and deserve.

What do the central and northern Alberta members of parliament propose to do to vindicate their claim to be the efficient custodians of the interests of their constituents?

Winning the Young

By EDGAR A. GURK

Were I a minister I think I'd waste no time on gray-headed ones.

Where lives are fixed and settled sure and could not fit a new shadow mould.

They're not in the world and sit content with their bit of truth.

If I dream of nobler things I'd seek to catch the eye of youth.

And if I wished to lead a charge against the shams and worn men, see.

I should be in the smug-content to take up arms and follow me.

Old men with all their battles done, who've given the world long since their best,

Are satisfied with gauds past and like too well their taste.

I'd try to share my dreams with youth, for they are pliant, strong and bold.

And they are not afraid of change, are not too fond of customs old.

Their hopes are fresh, their aims are high, they're not afraid to risk.

And he who wins them for the Right real service to the world will do.

The old may sit and nod their heads, but all the sermons preached are vain.

The cannot change their ways of life; as they are now, they are not.

But youth the higher realms may reach; young minds to splendor can be won.

And he who leads a lad to trust the noblesse of man has done.

I'd not be surprised if you'll find me.

And I'm not afraid of change, am I?

FIRE DEATHS LAID TO REVENGE PLOT

Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—A plot of revenge by police Thursday as the reason for the deaths of five-year-old David Bowes and his mother in their apartment house fire.

John W. Thompson, 31, confessed, yesterday, that he hired two boys for $4 to set fire to the building because he wanted to get even with his employer, who was his supervisor as housekeeper to work for Mrs. Mrs. Bowes was heard dead from burns and smoke inhalation, the coroner said. The two children died of the building.

The police said that just a minute before the fire started, police quipped Thompson as saying, "I just guess the mother and child are dead now, but die, but I didn't mean it that way."

Club Women Will Not Condemn Wives Working Out Of Homes

Heated Discussion Held at Local Council on Thursday

After heated discussion lasting over a period of an hour and a half, members of the Local Council of Women, Edmonton, voted to condemn the resolution condemning "the employment of a wife who works outside the home." It was voted on Thursday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A.

A motion to condemn the resolution was brought to light by the resolution presented to the club by Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, president of the Y.W.C.A., who had been thoroughly discussed by the twenty or more speakers.

One speaker, Mrs. Mary Campbell, said that she had been told by her organization that the Y.W.C.A. was a non-political organization.

It was explained that the society had passed a resolution that it was merely an emergency measure. However, the club voted to condemn the resolution, taking a stand on hard labor in the evening the way for women to work.

Mrs. Robert Owen of the Women's Cooperative Council said that she had voted to stand on the matter, as they felt that married women working did not add to the cause of their wives and either helping to look after their own homes or working outside the home.

The reporter requested $88.55 on hand, and announced that free were given.

On one occasion women have come down to the hall to see the layettes at girls wearing wedding rings, and so that they had been a great deal of consternation. One manager suggested that the girls should be sent home threatening to boycott his store unless he discharged married women.

Others suggested that he should be able to find clerks experienced and expert enough to take care of such as necessary to replace those he has.

Mrs. Jean Hill spoke at some length and said that since there was a law on the statute books of Alberta saying that no woman should be disqualified by marriage from holding office, she could not take action against the resolution.

Mrs. Hill said that she had been condemning married women with a small group of women and charging them with selfishness, when there was no reason for it.

She felt that a good education would be given to the girls regarding the errors in the law.

She is going to ask music teachers to bring their students to the hall and young women writers to leave their mark on the wall.

Miss Maude Murphy from the British Empire Conference, Mrs. H. J. Bell, and the Honorable Mrs. E. G. Ross, president of the Normal School, were working.

She was asked for the revaluation of city property by a man who was uninterested in the welfare of unmarried women working who did not add to the cause of their wives and either helping to look after their own homes or working outside the home.

She felt there was a danger of married women being replaced without due consideration of the fact that swelling the ranks of the unemployed. One manager who was present maintained that the married women were either in dire need of their services or were not willing to let their heads build up the business.
